The tropical capital of North Queensland

"It's quite evident that the CBD (and city as a whole) is booming and will be home to many more residents in the near future."

– (Gail.H, Reviewer, Homely.com.au)

Townsville is known as the unofficial capital of North Queensland. It's the 13th largest city by population in Australia, and has the largest shipping port in Northern Australia. It's also home to Australia's largest military base. As it's not surrounded by any mountains which create rain, this booming city receives 300 days of sunshine a year and is much drier than other cities.

Mining is a steady economic contributor: Townsville is the only city in the world to refine three base metals: zinc, copper and nickel - with a major lithium-ion battery facility coming soon!

ECONOMIC FOCUS

GROSS REGIONAL PRODUCT

$17 billion ($13 billion from the city itself).

KEY ECONOMIC CONTRIBUTORS

Mining - As the economic mining centre for North Queensland, almost 20% of the GRP comes from mining and related services.

Defence - Almost 1 in 10 (8%) of residents are in the ADF or a family member, with the industry.

Shipping - The largest cargo and container port in Northern Australia is the country's lead exporter of zinc, lead, sugar, and fertiliser.

The government is investing half a billion ($500 million) on upgrading an inland freight route (Mungindi to Charters Towers) to connect the region to Northern NSW - making the regional even more connected than it already is.

CURRENT POPULATION

240,000 Townsville region (195,000 in the city of Townsville itself).

YOUNG RESIDENTS

With an average age of 36, Townsville has a younger population than most of regional Australia (41) - due to the military base and James Cook University.

TOWNSVILLE LOVES ITS SPORTS

The Queensland Country Bank Stadium seats 25,000 and is home to the NRL's North QLD Cowboys. The only female professional sports team in Northern Australia, Townsville Fire, competes in the WNBL.

Higher income: Townsville residents have a higher median weekly income ($672) than Queensland ($660) and Australia as a whole ($662).
